

28 January 2008

Dear Customer,

Today, Nokia has made a public tender offer for all the shares in Trolltech.
We think this is great news for both you and us.

In Trolltech, we have for a long time had a vision of “Qt Everywhere”. Being acquired* by Nokia, we will continue to provide you with the most advanced cross-platform software framework for desktop and devices in the market. There will be further investments in Qt and Qtopia and an even better long-term security in your decision to choose Trolltech for your business.

We are confident that with Nokia we can accelerate our cross-platform software capabilities and grow Qt and Qtopia significantly in desktop and mass-volume device markets. The plan is that we will continue our current organizational setup, operating inside Nokia as a distinct unit.

Nokia is already using Qt for its PC Suite, and they aim to significantly expand the use of these technologies moving forward. In addition to pursuing new opportunities related to Nokia’s business focus, we will invest to continuously deliver world leading software in accordance to your needs.

In order to further stimulate industry innovation, Nokia will, as Trolltech has done throughout the history, continue to drive the licensing of Trolltech technology under both commercial and open source licenses.

If you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact us at sales@trolltech.com.

Best regards,

Trolltech ASA

 Please note that the acquisition is subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory and Trolltech shareholder approval.*