

Third International Symposium on Three-Dimensional Electromagnetics

3D EM-3

“3D EM at Work”

Organised by the Gerard W. Hohmann Memorial Trust for Research and Teaching in Applied Geophysics and the Australian Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Co-Chairmen: Dr. Michael Asten ( email: MichaelAsten@Flagstaff-Geoconsultants.com.au)
Mr. Robert Smith (email: greengeo@bigpond.net.au)

First Call For Papers

Date: 20th - 21st February 2003

Immediately following the 16th ASEG International Conference and Exhibition.

Place: Adelaide, South Australia

Cost: Approximately Aus$300 (US$175); discount for students

Invitation for Papers

Papers are invited in the areas of 3D EM modelling, inversion and applications relating to earth science. In keeping with the Symposium theme “3D EM at Work”, the committee particularly invites papers which demonstrate practical applications. Papers will be accepted for verbal presentation and poster sessions.

Sessions are planned on applications of 3D EM to:

Mineral exploration
Crustal Studies

Boreholes
Environmental Studies

Petroleum
Other Novel Applications

Preference for verbal presentations will be given to papers discussing applications of 3D EM, successful or unsuccessful. Purely theoretical papers are welcomed for presentation as a poster and for inclusion in the conference volume.

Abstracts should be emailed before August 15th 2002, to both Technical Co-Chairmen:

Prof. James Macnae (email: james.macnae@rmit.edu.au)
Dr. Guimin Liu (email: Guimin.Liu@bhpbilliton.com)

Presenters will be notified by September 15th 2002 and will be required to provide a full paper by December 1st 2002 and a copy of their verbal presentation with slides (preferably in Power Point or as PDF) one week prior to the Symposium.

The committee plans to publish full proceedings of the Symposium on a CD including a section of peer-reviewed papers in a format meeting academic guidelines for Research Publications. Details will be provided in the near future.
